

The Millionaire's Secrets: Life Lessons in Wisdom and Wealth, by Mark Fisher

If you had faith, real faith, you'd succeed. Anything a man can conceive of, anything he can believe in, he can also accomplish.

If I amassed a colossal fortune, it was only to show people of little faith the power of the mind. Discover who you really are. Truth will set you free.

He possessed some form of greatness, some talent as yet unexpressed, but then why hadn't he succeeded? Suddenly he recalled one of the last things the old millionaire had said to him. "Concentrate on the heart of the rose. . . Concentrate on the heart of the rose."

Extraordinary people know that ideas are very real entities.

Extraordinary people know that the brain, the mind, is like a radio, that it can produce extraordinarily beautiful music, that it contains enough wealth to satisfy their needs for the rest of their lives. I'm talking about accomplishment. If the man we saw a moment ago were able to use his inner powers, he could make his dreams come true and become a more fully realized version of himself.

Take a real millionaire, take away everything he has, and put him in a broke man's situation. In a few months, a few years at most, he will have rebuilt his fortune. Why? Because the most important thing he has could not be taken away from him – his mind."

You have to rely on your inner wisdom, on your intuition. If I had the time to work on only one of the ideas that sprang into my mind, which one would I choose?

Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better.

Great sages and entrepreneurs of this world live each day as if it were their last, continually dedicating themselves to the essential tasks.

All laws can be found in nature. A person who knows how to read the laws of nature also knows how to read the laws of life. "Look at this bush again. Look at this immense rose." The single rose is larger not because of luck, but because of the gardener's work. I systematically removed all the buds, allowing only one, the one that looked the most promising, to grow. Thus one flower received all the sap and nutrients contained in the branch and grew to a spectacular size. That is concentration. A person can be a gardener and the rose at the same time!

Luck does not exist. Luck is the law of causality. An action or thought, or a correct state of mind, will always bear fruit, even if it takes time.

Every day ordinary people allow themselves to be distracted by friends, relatives, and also by themselves.

Extraordinary people on the other hand, people who are aware, they are concentrated, firmly grounded in the center of their being, and nothing can distract them.

The biggest problem for a businessman, or an artist – is not being able to sit down and simply think about how to improve; to be successful.

Real concentration is a sacrifice. Concentrating means sacrificing all other activities.

The real and secret goal of work is to raise your consciousness to a state where everything becomes easy.

Concentration will lead to mastery. Mastery will allow you to control your destiny.

The method I am teaching you must never be used for selfish ends, because whatever you gain at the expense of others will eventually turn against you, strangle you.

When your mind becomes stronger, better trained, you'll understand that everything happens for a reason. Things always happen for the best. And at the same time, nothing is really of any importance. Things are only as important as we make them.

If your mind remains perfectly calm, even when faced with death, all your anxiety will disappear and all your problems will dissolve back into the void. When you've understood this principle, you'll be free.

Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better. Day by Day, in all ways, I am more powerful, confident, healthy, and happy.

Life is magic. The human mind can accomplish anything.

Your power should always be used for what is right and good, both for you and for others. Never use your power for selfish purposes.

If you do, the law of causality will turn against you. Always abide by the great golden rule: do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

If you really believe, you will succeed. Faith can move mountains.

To really succeed you need real faith. Real faith is simply an inner vision of great spiritual laws.

All millionaires have this kind of faith at the start of their careers, which is why they are so often accused of being dreamers.

You also need audacity; you need to dare to achieve the things you really want.

To be your own master, you must be alone. – Da Vinci

You can make money doing anything. You just have to dare to be yourself. Every person is on this earth for a precise reason.

The obstacles we encounter on the way, the persons who apparently complicate our lives and oppose our plans, are in fact there to help us. They help build character, affirm our faith, and test our perseverance.

If you want to accomplish your destiny, you have to be daring. You have to have the audacity to become who you are.

What you write has to reveal what is great about humanity. You have to show how people can attain their own greatness, how they can regain their lost nobility, how, having turned into sheep, they can become lions again.

Constantly maintaining an ideal of perfection, light & love, we can accomplish our destiny & open the marvelous doorway to all achievement.

Every time you are unhappy, tell yourself that it is probably a sign you have deviated from your plan.

Ask your inner guides for advice, then wait for an answer-----In the meantime, do something for another person, help someone.

The ultimate service: teaching others to discover the truth = that can set them free and make them happy

It will take time, a lot of time, before you realize your ambitions Never give up. Never. Never.

What I plan to do is divide my time in half. I'll spend a couple of days a week on my writing and the rest of the time I'll devote to work.

In the greatest adversity, lies the seed of highest achievement.

His mind was his greatest source of wealth. Even if you took away everything, he'd sooner or later get it all back, because he still had the most important thing a person can possess – his mind.

DEATH Every being is assigned a precise moment to leave this sphere of existence, even before they are born. He accomplished what he had to do here and was expected elsewhere, to begin a new stage of his life.

Superior persons act with the inner certitude that not only do they have their whole life before them, but dozens of future lives.

Highly evolved persons are endowed with great patience and live each day with a kind of detachment

He knows the ultimate goal of all he does is to transform himself to perfect his inner self

– This enlightened knowledge gives freedom and removes all fear of death.

DEATH Fear of death arises from this desire to experience real happiness at least once before leaving this Earth.

People who have a clear and precise goal, with an amount wished to earn and a time limit in which to earn it, will make steady progress toward their objective, and you'll wonder how it is that they have gotten so far ahead of everyone else. This is the magic of having a goal, and the power of thinking big.

REPEAT YOUR GOAL MORNING AND NIGHT. FEED IT TO YOUR SUBCONSCIOUS MIND

What makes people age prematurely is the fact they don't live in the present, nor do they fill their lives with love.

Disease cannot affect them because they live in harmony. Disease means our inner harmony is disturbed by incorrect mental attitudes.

Breathing ten times as less than they should is another factor that causes most people to age before their time.

He decided that he really had to give up (her) once and for all. Concentrating means sacrificing all other activities.

Success can be learned by imitating others. This is one of the principles- paying attention to specifics of prior achievements.

You see, it's not that hard. All you need is to really believe. You can do anything you really believe.

Each day is the first day of your life. Forget about your past failures, the disappointment, the melancholy they caused.

Your determination grows stronger each day. And you approach a success you never dreamed possible. Just persevere.

Every failure you have encountered is one less failure you'll undergo. It brings you closer to your goal.

Failure is the price you have to pay. It's when you think it's all over that things really begin.

If you really love what you do, if you feel a burning passion for your work, then every experience associated with it will be enriching.

Each time you fall you have to get up again, lifted by the power of your unswerving ideals.

There's no shame in making mistakes, in falling, even if you hear echoes of mocking laughter.

With each failure you encounter your character becomes stronger.

Character equals fortune Stamina and humility are the virtues of the great.

Never Give up. Never. Never...

You will succeed.....

Everything always works out for the best. It is only because of our intellectual limit that we are not able to see the advantages, and mysterious reasons for ALL events.

Illness leaves when it is no longer necessary. It was given to you as a kind of grace, to help develop your mind more rapidly.

Since it was no longer necessary, your disease disappeared.

The same goes for all suffering and all calamities – they are sent to us out of mercy to help us evolve and find our true source.

"People who are tested are fortunate. But when you find your true self, suffering is no longer necessary. And not only is it no longer necessary, it is no longer possible. There is only room for happiness, for renewed rejoicing...."
